

SIAMS Inspectors for Derby Diocese

Louise Patterson

Having been Advisory Teacher for Religious Education in Derbyshire for more than 5 years, I worked for the Diocese of Lincoln as their Schools' Advisor. I have been self-employed since the beginning of 2000 and have undertaken teacher training for both Sheffield Hallam and Nottingham Trent Universities, training for teachers in Derbyshire and numerous denominational inspections. I trained to inspect in 1999 and have enjoyed working in the dioceses of Derby, Sheffield and Southwell.

John Clapham

I began my teaching career in Liverpool in 1994 and taught in primary schools in Liverpool and West Yorkshire before moving to Derbyshire to take up my first headship. I am currently Head Teacher at St. Andrew's CE Methodist Primary school in Dronfield, and thoroughly enjoy the role. I represent the diocese on the Derbyshire SACRE committee, which has given me valuable insight into the teaching of RE across the county. I am a committed Christian, and very involved in children's and youth work at the church that I attend. I am passionate about church school education and see it as a privilege to be involved in the inspection of church schools.

Elizabeth Stanley Wainwright

I started my teaching career in 1996 in Nottinghamshire, since then I have worked in Nottingham City and then Derbyshire. I am currently the head teacher at Stanley St Andrew's Church of England school in Derbyshire. I am passionate about the future of all church schools and am committed to ensuring the very best for the young people who attend these schools. I also enjoy being an associate school adviser for Derbyshire which has given me a range of experiences in a number of different schools. I became a SIAMS inspector in July 2016. I really enjoy machine sewing, photography and have a keen interest in cars.

David Wood

I have worked in education for 15 years, all of which have been in the Primary sector. Prior to joining QEGSMAT I held the position of Regional Director for a large national Trust where I supported 8 academies in both rural and urban settings, providing effective and timely school to school support in order to achieve improved outcomes. This also encompassed quality assurance of the systems and programmes in place across the academies, including Academy Improvement Plans, self-evaluation documents, monitoring of the quality of teaching and learning and pupil progress and attainment. Previously, I have been the headteacher of a C of E Primary school, leading it successfully through Ofsted and SIAMS inspections I became a SIAMS inspector during 2016. This allows me to see at first hand the great work that goes on in our church schools, and witness the positive impact this has on the children in our care. I have a lovely family, and I spend a lot of time ensuring that my 2 children get to their various sporting fixtures, which I would not have any other way.
